California - North Area 7 Day Significant Fire Potential

Legend

Fuel Dryness

	Moist - Little or no risk for large fires.
	Dry - Low risk of large fires in the absence of a "High Risk" event.
	Very dry - Low/Moderate risk of large fires in the absence of a "High Risk" event.
	Data Unavailable.

High Risk Events

	Wind
	Hot and Dry
	Lightning

Predictive Service Area	Tue Jul 1	Wed Jul 2	Thu Jul 3	Fri Jul 4	Sat Jul 5	Sun Jul 6	Mon Jul 7	Tue Jul 8
NC01 - North Coast
NC02 - Mid Coast
NC03A - Bay Area-Marine
NC03B - Diablo/Santa Cruz Mtns
NC04 - Northwestern Mtns
NC05 - Sacramento Valley
NC06 - Northeast CA
NC07 - Northern Sierra
NC08 - East Side

Isolated thunderstorms Tuesday produced mostly dry lightning activity in 3 of the 4 Predictive Services Areas (PSAs) highlighted as High Risk. There were over 250 total Northern Operations (NOPS) strikes, producing over 25 known new fires as of mid Wed. morning. The axis of the upper ridge has now shifted east to lie over the central Great Basin, leaving northern California under a SW flow aloft. There is a weak, trailing Pacific trough headed west-to-east into Oregon, that will brush the northern third of northern California late today. This will cause a second day of isolated (still fairly dry) thunderstorm chances, though today they are forecast to be confined to in or near, the counties bordering Oregon. In the eastern part of northern California, Lassen Co. southward looks just stable enough to NOT get new/ additional lightning activity today.

Southern Region

Warm temperatures and light winds can be expected through Thursday with light southwesterly flow prevailing across the area. Widespread night and morning marine layer stratus will continue along the coast while inland areas remain sunny but hazy. Highs will continue to be a few degrees above normal with temperatures ranging from the 70s along the coast to the 90s across the inland valleys. The San Joaquin Valley will see highs of 102-105 while low desert readings will be close to 120. Toward the weekend, high pressure is expected to build over the four corners which will allow for southeasterly flow to develop across Southern California. A decent amount subtropical moisture may cycle into region to allow for wet thunderstorms to develop across deserts south of I-15 and adjacent areas of the San Bernardino and Cleveland National Forest late Friday afternoon and again Saturday afternoon. As the atmosphere is expected to remain stable due a significant deck of high cloudiness, only isolated thunderstorm coverage is expected. Expect temperatures to be a couple degrees warmer with a noticeable increase in relative humidity likely south and east of Los Angeles County over the weekend. Much of the moisture will begin to shift north of the region early next week, resulting in less afternoon convection by Monday. Winds will remain light and minimum relative humidity will remain above 15% over most areas throughout the 7 day period.

- The Santa Barbara County OA EOC is activated at Level 2 to be handled by the duty officer for the purpose of monitoring activities and gaining situational awareness. The operational period is 0800-1700 hours.

Situational Summary

On January 17, 2014 Governor Edmund G. Brown proclaimed a State of Emergency and directed state officials to take all necessary actions to prepare for drought conditions. The State Operation Center (SOC) is activated to implement objectives in support of the Governor's priorities. The lack of winter rain and snowfall has resulted in extremely dry conditions in many parts of the State. Reservoir levels are down significantly from where they should be on average for this time of year. If conditions continue without substantial rainfall, severe impacts to municipal water supplies, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities are likely in store for the State over the next few months. Negative economic impacts will also result.

**As our state's rainy season comes to an end, it is highly unlikely that precipitation totals will increase significantly. This winter's below average rain and snowfall worsens conditions in this third straight dry year.****

The drought could result in severe impacts to the municipal water supplies, wells, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities for several months. The SOC continues to be activated to monitor the situation statewide, and support regional and local operational areas.

- The Taskforce continues to meet regularly to take actions that conserve water and coordinate state response to the drought.
- DWR has announced that water essential for health and safety will be delivered through the state water project. The current State Water Project Allocation is 5%.
- Cal OES continues to gather drought-related costs from state agencies and local governments.
